

ANOTHER MURDER.

Mrs. Frank Leslie Shoots her Husband in the Head.

A SOUTH SIDE HOUSE OF ILL FAME

The Scene of the Shocking Tragedy Early last Evening.

SAD END OF A SERIES OF QUARRELS

She had Shot at him Once before and was in Jail for it.

THE FOURTH MURDEROUS AFFAIR.

That has Occurred in Wheeling this Week--Mrs. Leslie Committed to Jail without Bail to Await the Result of her Husband's Wounds. Who the Parties are, and Something Indicating the Cause of the Fatal Assault.

About a quarter before six o'clock last evening Mrs. Mamie Leslie shot her husband, Frank Leslie, inflicting a fatal wound. The ball entered the right temple, piercing the brain.

Leslie was taken to the City Hospital, and there Dr. John R. Pipes, assisted by Dr. Schwinn and Dr. Frank Hupp, trephined his skull, in the hope that this might relieve the pressure on his brain.

It did not have that effect, however, and at half past nine o'clock Leslie died.

County Coroner Phillips was at police headquarters, waiting to hear the result of the shot, when the news of his death came, and he hastened to the hospital at once.

The shooting occurred in the house of ill fame on Anne Keim, on Twenty-first street, adjoining hook and ladder house No. 1. Leslie was in the house when his wife entered and said to Mrs. Keim: "I want my husband!"

He heard her and recognized the voice, and pushing open the door leading from the room in which he was, to that his wife had entered, he placed his foot against it. Mrs. Leslie tried to force the door open, but failed.

Mrs. Wooster conducted the woman around to another door leading into the same room, and she thus came face to face with her husband. He started toward the door, when she drew a revolver from the folds of a light wrap she wore, and pointing it straight at his head, fired.

The ball entered his right temple, and he fell. After lying scarcely a second he put his hand to his head, and feeling a little lump on the surface where the ball had struck, he muttered something about the bullet, and rose to his feet. He tottered a little, and then sank to the floor again.

Mrs. Keim ran to the door of the hook and ladder house and called the firemen. Mark Mulkearn and John Donley went in, and found Mrs. Leslie standing in an open way beneath a staircase.

Mulkearn said to her: "Here, I want you! Where is that gun?"

She handed over the pistol and accompanied them quietly to the hook and ladder house, where Mulkearn left her in the custody of Donley and went out to look for an officer. He found several South Side officers passing on their way from the 6 o'clock roll call, and Officer Donovan was called in and the woman turned over to him. He took her to police headquarters.

Dr. John R. Pipes was summoned hurriedly and did what he could for the wounded man at the house where the tragedy occurred, and the patrol wagon having arrived in response to a call, he was removed to the City Hospital.

Dr. Pipes gave it as his opinion that he could not possibly live more than an hour or two.

When Officer Donovan went to call the woman Mrs. Leslie thought he wanted to take her in it to the lockup, and she exclaimed, "Oh, don't do that; I will walk up."

After she had been at the headquarters for some time Squire P. L. Kimberly was called in, and he committed her to jail without bail to await the result of her shot. The justice said he would have the hearing at the jail office some time this afternoon.

Mrs. Leslie refused to talk to the officers or to anybody else, when she was first arrested. After some time, however, she said to Lieut. Gause:

"I have had constant trouble; nothing but trouble all the time!"

She gave the keys of the house over her husband's saloon at 2006 Main street to Officer Donovan, and he went down and locked the place up.

WHO THEY ARE.

Leslie came here from Wellsboro, Ohio, where he was a policeman for a time. He was known as "Ted" Leslie. His wife, Mamie, is said to be of good family at East Liverpool, Ohio.

Leslie got a license to keep a saloon at 2006, but afterwards Councilman Bailey caused it to be withheld because stalls were being put in the place such as are devoted usually to the worst immorality. He has had a saloon there probably eighteen months.

About a year ago Mrs. Leslie shot at her husband, but did not hit him. She was arraigned before the late Squire Davis, who sent her to jail, but later the case was arranged somehow and she was released.

It was said at that time that she accused Frank of having seduced her sister, and that it was for that reason she tried to kill him. The police say her sister is now an inmate of a house of ill fame in East Wheeling.

Leslie was a short, heavy set man, weighing about 190 pounds. His wife is a tall, spare, delicate looking woman, with traces of former good looks.

The pistol with which the shot was fired was a cheap one of Hopkins & Allen make, and only .32 calibre.

AN EYE WITNESS'S STORY.

Mrs. Keim says that when she showed Mrs. Leslie into the room where Leslie was, she said to the man:

"Frank, here is your wife. You'd better go home with her."

Leslie retorted: "To hell with my wife!"

Mrs. Leslie pulled the revolver out from under her apron, which was tied over her wrap, and pointed it toward the man. He dodged, or flinched in some way, and she said, as she took deliberate aim:

"Frank, you have driven me to this!" She was eight or ten feet from him when she fired. After he had undertaken to get up and fallen again, he was helped into a chair, and there Mr. John R. Pipes found him, unconscious, but groaning and bleeding from the nose and the wound in the temple.

After he was lifted into the chair he spoke to Officer Frohne, whom he apparently recognized. He asked him to take him home. Shortly after this he became unconscious, and he never regained consciousness, although after the trephining at the hospital his pulse grew firmer and steadier and his respiration better. It was hoped for a time that his life might be saved, but after a brief moment of apparent relief he began to sink again, and soon breathed his last.

WERE THEY MARRIED?

Only a short time ago proceedings were entered in a justice's court to collect a claim against Leslie. In the proceedings he asserted that he was not a married man. In view of the fact that in that suit it was decidedly to his advantage to have a wife, this is rather a startling statement, but people who have means of forming an opinion say that in spite of his own denial there is scarcely a shadow of a doubt that Mamie was his lawful wedded wife.

Some time ago Leslie told friends that he did not intend to apply for license for another year. He got the blank papers from City Clerk Thoner, however, to make his formal application for a renewal. There was a good deal of talk about his place as rather a tough dive.

Kate Caulfield was the girl whom Leslie went to the house to see. She said last night that he had not been there before for several weeks.

One of the police said last night that he saw Leslie have a big roll of money this week. After he was shot less than a quarter in change was found on him. He had a cheap gold watch and a bunch of keys, with a few receipts and small scraps of paper, and that was all that was found on him.

THE INQUEST.

At the hospital last night Coroner Phillips impaneled and swore the following gentlemen as members of the jury of inquest: Robert Schnelle, F. A. Woebler, Jr., John Cruick, T. B. Gibbons, Ed. Hoffer and William Yost.

The following witnesses were ordered to be summoned: Mrs. William Hanes, Mrs. Davis, Anne Keim, Kate Caulfield, Mary Williams, Gertie Williams, Jennie Black, Nellie Warner, Alice Lovagore, Annie Gessler, Mrs. Hearn and Mark Mulkearn.

The jury formally viewed the body, and then adjourned till three o'clock this afternoon, to give the county physician, Dr. L. D. Wilson, time to make the formal autopsy.

The murder caused a great deal of excitement. Coming as it did in the same week as the killing by Wilhelm Maier of his wife, the murderous assault on Ed Kunkel, who had his throat cut in a boat house in the Eighth ward, and that on Ada Foster, who was so severely cut by Miss McGumphy, it is apt to cause a bad reputation to get abroad for Wheeling. It is notable, also, that there were two deaths in this city this week by accident--those of John Koenig and Charles Loehke, both killed on the B. & O. railroad.

Maier Still at Large.

Wilhelm Maier, the wife murderer, is still at large, and it looks as if his boast that if he ever did kill his wife he would not be caught, would be made good.

The clue as to Maier's whereabouts which came from over the river was followed up by the police till a late hour yesterday morning, but nothing came of it. Yesterday morning word came that a man had been seen walking east beyond little Washington, with a cornet under his coat. He answered Maier's description, except that he had a moustache, which Maier has not.

Rumor of a Hoody Affray.

BUTTE, MONT., April 8.--Meagre news has reached here to the effect that cattle men and range rustlers have had an encounter. At the encounter the attacking party was repulsed and the thieves killed eight men and wounded several others. It is also stated that the robbers lost heavily. Owing to the isolated character of the country definite news cannot be obtained for several days.

A Fiend Hanged.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 8.--At Toronto, Cleveland county, this morning K. Frazer was executed for outraging his 13-year-old step-daughter in October. The hanging was without incident beyond those of the usual character.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

NEW YORK, April 8.--At 9 o'clock to-night Albert Habodent, aged twenty-five, shot Amelia Fress, same age, a domestic of 103 East Fortieth street, and then committed suicide. The girl was not dangerously hurt.

THE STATE CONVENTION HELD

In Boston to Select Delegates to the Chicago Convention--A Strong Anti-Free Coinage Platform Adopted. His Name Hissed and Cleveland's Name Enthusiastically Cheered. The Chairman Makes a Plea for Harmony on National Issues.

Boston, Mass., April 8.--The Democratic state convention for the choice of four delegates to the convention at Chicago, met at Tremont Temple this forenoon. Three different tickets were distributed through the hall. One bore the names of Patrick A. Collins, of Boston; John W. Corcoran, of Clinton; Albert C. Houghton, of North Adams, and John E. Russell, of Leicester. Another had the names of Patrick A. Collins, John W. Cummings, of Fall River; Alpheus R. Alger, of Cambridge, and Walter Cummings, of Pittsfield, and on the third were the names of John W. Corcoran, of Clinton, Messrs. Houghton, Cummings and Russell.

The convention was called to order by Secretary Buckley, of the Democratic committee. The standing committees were then appointed. The committee on credentials then reported that 323 towns and twenty-eight cities were represented by 1,931 delegates.

Hon. Edward Avery, of Braintree, was unanimously chosen as permanent chairman.

Mr. Avery, upon taking the chair, addressed the convention at considerable length. He reviewed the history of the party in the state for many years. Taking up the silver question, the speaker said: "No Massachusetts Democrat, in Boston or in Washington, in convention or in Congress, hesitates to express himself on the silver question. We are thankful that the danger of the passage of a free silver coinage act seems for the present to be averted. Some of the votes which may have contributed to this result may have been given from pure patriotism, some from pure politics, and some from a pure satisfaction with the existing law. For one, I accept the result with gratitude and forego all criticism of motives."

"We are equally opposed to the existing law and the proposed law. The existing law is a Republican measure, and we hold the Republican party responsible for it and for all its attendant evils."

He declared that "the national Democratic party is for honest money, a currency of gold and silver, every dollar of which shall be of equal intrinsic value all over the world. Until this policy is modified by another national Congress, no man, or set of men, in Congress, or out of Congress can commit the party to any other policy."

Before concluding his speech, Mr. Avery said the next President must be a Democrat, and there was applause and shouts of "Cleveland." Mr. Avery attempted to proceed but cheers were demanded for Cleveland and given with a will and a vigor. Then came a call for cheers for Hill. Those were given, but with a liberal admixture of hisses.

The resolutions adopted approve the McKinley law; expresses belief in the reduction of tariff taxes to increase revenue in protecting the daily living of the people instead of giving opportunity to a privileged class to acquire wealth; declares for honest money, the gold and silver coinage of the constitution, and believes that all dollars coined by the United States should be of equal intrinsic value, and that all paper currency issued by the government should be redeemable in either gold or silver coin, at the option of the holder, and not at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury.

The resolutions close as follows: "While adhering to the time honored custom not to pledge our delegation, we declare our conviction that the best interests of the party and of the country demand the nomination and election of Grover Cleveland as President, and we are confident that under his leadership the principles of Democracy will again win a glorious victory."

The convention proceeded to receive nominations for delegates at large and brief nominating speeches were made, and the following were chosen: John W. Corcoran, Patrick A. Collins, John E. Russell and Albert C. Houghton.

RELIGIOUS FANATICS

Circulate a Report that May Cause Much Bloodshed.

DELHI, April 8.--Great excitement has been caused among the natives by rumors circulated by religious fanatics that the government had appointed secret agents to kidnap seven boys who were to be offered as a sacrifice to the water deity upon the site of the projected reservoir. The matter was discussed among the natives and the rumors were implicitly believed. The indignation grew intense, and a watch was set to discover who the agents were. A number of persons, including several Sikh Hindus, were suspected by the government emissaries to steal the victims. To-day crowds of natives set upon the suspects and beat them in a most cruel manner. The excitement spread and the natives are in a dangerous state. The police are doing their utmost to allay the excitement.

A Threatened Riot.

MANISTEE, Mich., April 8.--One hundred and fifty Polish laborers at Eastlake, near this city, claim to have been discharged from work on Peters' salt block and saw mills for voting contrary to the wishes of the managers at the recent election. The plant is in the hands of the Michigan Trust Company as receiver. Great excitement prevails and damage to property is feared from the Poles.

More Anarchist Outrages.

BIRMINGHAM, April 8.--While a lecture was being delivered in the church of St. Jacques, in Bilbao to-day, intense excitement was caused by the discovery in the building of a petard to which a lighted fuse was attached. A man cut the fuse.

Four more anarchists have been arrested in Bilbao.

LONDON, April 8.--A meeting in Belfast of the Ulster defense committee, the mayor presiding, to arrange for a convention, went a degree beyond the recent Ulster commoners' gathering in the violence of their tirades. The presence of secrecy of the proceedings enabled the speakers to indulge in warlike trumpeting, and the resolutions recorded Ulster's determination to have nothing to do with the Dublin parliament, which is certain to be controlled by men who are responsible for the crimes of the league, the cruelties and boycotting, and are mere tools of clerical domination, and an attempt to set up such a parliament will inevitably result in disorder, violence and bloodshed to an extent that has been unknown in Ireland for a century. Major Sanderson denied that the British parliament had any right to hand them over to another legislature which they never would obey, and the sentiment was received with frantic cheering. Finally, general and executive committees were appointed. The public sense of the danger and importance of this aggression is growing. Over 100 non-conformist Irish ministers have agreed to arouse a religious animus.

A GRUESOME CONVERSATION

To be Carried on by a Severed Head and a Medical Student to-day in Paris.

PARIS, April 8.--The execution of Lieutenant Anastay, who murdered the aged Baroness Dellard, in December last, is fixed for 5 o'clock to-morrow morning. Anastay will be guillotined in La Roquette prison. Deibler, the chief executioner, has received a number of threatening letters from anarchists. The approaches to La Roquette will be strictly guarded.

Anastay has requested his brother, who is a medical student, to experiment on his head as soon as it is decapitated by the executioner. He promised to reply by movements of his eyes to certain questions which his brother will ask regarding the sensations which he experiences when taking off his head from his body, and matters of a physiological nature. The object of this proposed gruesome conversation is to afford a test as to whether any vestiges of life remain in a human head immediately after it has been severed from the body.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS

In Reunion at New Orleans--Want Mrs. Davis Pensioned by Southern States.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 8.--The Confederate veterans have been blessed with beautiful sunny weather for their grand reunion, which begins to-day. The brave soldiers who wore the gray met again after years of separation to fraternize and to recall the multiple incidents of that warlike epoch of thirty years ago. At the meeting General Gordon spoke of Lee, of Hood and others, and caused the veterans to demonstrate their vigorous appreciation of his eloquence. He next spoke of the valor and loyalty of the confederates. The old flag has been furled forever; the cause of separate national existence lives now only as a memory. Old things have passed and a new era has come, and now we are all American citizens." (Deafening applause.)

A resolution was offered by Gen. Gordon recommending that the confederate states each grant a pension of $500 to Mrs. Jefferson Davis. The resolution was adopted.

MURDER AT CANTON.

A Sensational Tragedy--Shot His Wife's Paramour and Killed Himself.

PITTSBURGH, April 8.--A Post Canton, Ohio, special says: This afternoon John McCurdy, a plasterer, shot and killed L. T. Waltenbaugh, shot his wife, and then committed suicide. There were no witnesses to the shooting, but it is thought the cause of the tragedy came from finding Waltenbaugh in his wife's bed room.

A window opening upon the yard was broken, and it would seem from the outside, and the curtains look as though a shot had been fired through the opening. It is supposed that McCurdy looking through the window saw them together and fired into the room. Waltenbaugh was an aged man with a wife and several children. McCurdy was somewhat younger and had been married for several years.

Bravo Men Rewarded.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., April 8.--A Raymond and Whitehead excursion train due in the city at 2 o'clock this morning was wrecked about twenty miles west of here. The train struck a rock and the engine and baggage car went into the river. The coolness and bravery of the engineer, John Good, and William Noble, fireman, saved the balance of the train. A collection was taken up on the train and $750 was presented to the two men.

THE NEW SYNAGOGUE

Dedicated with Appropriate Ceremonies.

A VERY SMALL CONGREGATION

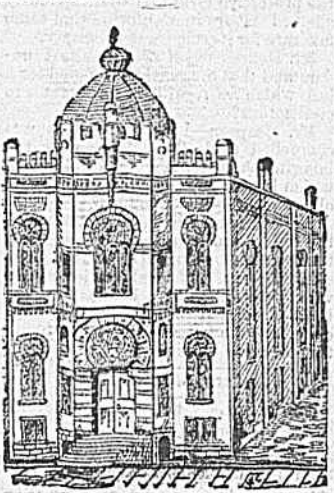

Builds a Large and Beautiful Church Edifice.

SERMONS BY EMINENT DIVINES

And Speeches by the President of the Congregation and the Chairman of the Building Committee--A Special Choir Secured for the Occasion. Brief Review of the Efforts Culminating in the Present Success.

BEAUTIFUL new church, that of the Lesheim-Shomaim Jewish congregation, was dedicated yesterday to the service of God, in an imposing and appropriate manner.

Notwithstanding the rain, which began shortly before the hour set for the beginning of the dedicatory exercises, the new temple was well filled, not only with members of the congregation and others of the same faith from the neighboring towns, but also with many Christians, who were interested spectators of the ceremony. Rev. Dr. D. A. Cunningham, of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Ufert, of the St. John's German Evangelical church, Rev. A. Moore, of the Zane street Methodist church, and other clergymen of Christian denominations were seated in the church, and remained from the beginning to the end of the ceremonies.

The temple has already been described in the INTELLIGENCER. With its artistic stained-glass windows and all the furnishings that go to complete the interior of a church, it is as handsome as any religious edifice in the city.

The temple is a worthy monument to the efforts of the congregation of Lesheim-Shomaim. The first work was done on the building about two years ago, the plans having been drawn by the late Architect E. W. Wells. For one year the long strike among the building trades delayed the work, and the sudden death by drowning of Architect Wells postponed again somewhat the completion of the work. Architect O. S. Philpott took up the work and carried it on to completion, according to the original design and plans.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE.

consisting of Messrs. Morris Horkheimer, chairman, and Henry Jacobs, Emanuel Einsheimer, Samuel Kraft and E. Buckman, worked faithfully toward finishing the work. Mr. Horkheimer particularly spending much time and urging the building forward.

On Tuesday, June 1, 1891, the corner stone was laid with formal exercises, on the northwest corner of the foundation, adjoining the public school. A large sized assemblage viewed the exercises, and Rev. Dr. Bonheim delivered an address. Yesterday the synagogue, complete in all details, was dedicated to God's service. The temple is forty-four by one hundred feet, and seats about 600 persons downstairs, where the Sabbath school meets, and about 400 in the body of the church. The cost has been about $20,000. It is of the Moorish style of architecture, and is surmounted by a handsome slate roof. The front is of pressed brick, with stone trimmings; the Jewish community may well be proud of the successful termination of its efforts to secure a place of worship, the need of which has long been felt.

The trustees are Messrs. Julius Brilles, Samuel Kraus, Bernard Horkheimer, A. L. Kraft and S. S. Bloch.

THE DEDICATION CEREMONIES.

Impressively Carried Out--Address by Rev. Dr. Bonheim, Rev. Dr. Szoil and Rev. Dr. Grossman.

The Jewish temple was recently completed, and Rev. Dr. Bonheim and the building committee for the last few weeks have been arranging for an appropriate dedication. Yesterday was the day appointed.

The interior walls have not yet been frescoed, owing to their newness, but the white surface itself was beautiful, relieved as it was at regular intervals with the rich stained glass windows, already described in detail in the INTELLIGENCER. Two massive brass chandeliers depended from the ceiling. The pulpit, beautifully ornamented with potted plants and smilax, was flanked with two magnificent candelabra, also festooned with vines. The artistic grouping of the flowers and plants about the pulpit reflected much credit on the taste of Mrs. Morris Horkheimer, Mrs. M. Schlesinger and Miss Emma Kraus, under whose direction the plants were arranged.

Before 3 o'clock, the time set for the beginning of the ceremonies, the nave of the church filled rapidly with people, only invitations sufficient to comfortably fill the pews having been sent out. The ushers, in evening dress, were Messrs. Louis Gundling, Joseph Baer, G. S. Einsheimer, Benjamin Kraus, I. Sonneborn, R. A. Heyman, Charles J. Beckman, E. Hanaud and Gabe Einsheimer promptly seated the invited guests.

While the congregation was gathering in the church, below in the Sabbath school room the procession was being formed. Precisely at three o'clock, to the strains of the organ, presided over by Miss May Wilde, the procession entered the church. The girls and boys of the Sabbath school marched in front, and were followed by the chairman of the Sabbath school committee, Messrs. Meyer Heyman, Michael Einsheimer and David Pinkus carried the Torahs, or followed immediately by the three Rabbis, Dr. B. A. Bonheim, Dr. Benjamin Szoil and Dr. Louis Grossman.

Messrs. Henry Baer, president; Henry Jacobs, vice president, and Tobias Vannberg, secretary, followed the Rabbis, and afterwards came Mr. Morris Horkheimer, chairman, and the members of the building committee. Miss Stella Kraus, with two little assistants, carried on a satin cushion the key to the door of the synagogue, and Charlie Sonneborn carried the Bible, assisted by Pearl and Lillie Frank. The rear of the procession was brought up by the girls of the Sabbath school.

The dedication services began with the singing of Kitziger's hymn, "Ma Towu," by the choir. The singing by the choir was not the least beautiful of the various incidents of the services. It had been specially secured for this occasion, and consisted of Mrs. Flora Williams, Miss Nettie Wilde and Mrs. Lee Baer, sopranos; Mrs. Peckles Tatum, Miss Grace Finnell and Miss Hanneben Bonheim, contraltos; Messrs. W. B. Day and John Mendel, tenors, and Messrs. Charles Zulauf and Will McCoy, basses. Some especially fine music was rendered. Besides the Hebrew hymns, "Ma Towu," "Sh'mah Roshem," "Sh'mah Roshem," "Hodo L'adonai," "Elo Chajim," "Hodo L'adonai," the whole choir sang Gounod's "Unfold, Ye Portals everlasting," the "Hallelujah" (150th Psalm) and the hymn, "O, be Joyful in the Lord." Mrs. Flora Williams sang as a solo Handel's, "O, had I Jubal's Lyre," and Mr. Zulauf's magnificent bass was heard to splendid advantage in Sarastro's song in the Magic Flute, "In Diegen Heiligen Hallen."

MR. HORKHEIMER'S ADDRESS.

After a very brief invocation by each of the three Rabbis, Mr. Morris Horkheimer, chairman of the building committee, rose from his seat back of the pulpit and made the following address:

"MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD:--Two years ago it was your pleasure to appoint and constitute us a building committee, of which I had the honor to be chosen chairman, for the purpose of securing plans and to superintend the erection of a house of worship. To-day we have come to place before you the results and fruits of our labor, and ask for the discharge of this committee, tendering you our best thanks for the trust and confidence you have bestowed upon us, and hoping that the work done by your committee will fully come up to the expectations of all concerned."

"We have aimed and striven to carry out the ideas of your congregation to the utmost of our ability, and are aware that criticism is in strict order, fully appreciating that it is best and right that it should be so."

Mr. Horkheimer regretted that the late E. W. Wells had died before he could witness the completion of the synagogue; he complimented Mr. O. S. Philpott, the architect under whose superintendence the temple was finished, and spoke in terms of high praise of the contractors, the Klieves-Kraft Company. He thanked the members of the building committee for the courtesy with which they had treated their president, and the faithfulness with which all had labored for the completion of the church edifice. Mr. Horkheimer closed his address with these words:

"Now, Mr. President, the many evidences of interest which even bordered on enthusiasm, the care and circumspection you have exhibited, the true and bold spirit, based none the less on calm and sound judgment, which characterized you as the presiding officer in our congregational meetings, where you, raised your armies necessary for the crowning victory: All these are conclusive evidences of the fact that you will in the future continue in the good work, which must bring us and our children most glorious results. In placing the key of this temple in your possession I have no doubt in my mind but that you will be, both in a moral and a religious sense, its true keeper."

LIKE A SKILLED GENERAL,

In saying this, Mr. Horkheimer took the key from the cushion and delivered it into the president's hands, Mr. Henry Baer rising to receive it.
